POTTERY EXTENSION & SHED UPDATE

The Extension to Pottery is progressing, but is frustratingly slow. Construction is basically complete. The internal walls & underside of the verandah have been battened ready for plastering.

The first fix electrical wiring & new switchboard have been installed. We are now waiting for the plastering to be started. Once the plastering is complete I have been advised by the painter & the electrician that they are ready to go.

The builder is waiting for the supply of a 5,000 litre water tank to complete the plumbing. Along with everyone else I am looking forward to this project being completed.
